We can't blame it on the summer heat 'cause it ain't that hot yet, but the morning papers Monday carried three stories which create concern in this corner, "Man fatally stabs three", "Five killed with hammer", "Youth arrested in death of five people whose charred remains found . . . ", add to this the woman shooting passengers on the California bus, riots in the big cities, the almost daily reports of individuals being killed in random shootings and we have problems in America. A thinking person can assume some of what seems to be a surge in violence is because of a vast increase in the volume of news we are exposed to daily. However we are a bit afraid that ain't the cause of it all. What makes this even scarier is the fact those of us who are worried can't agree on just what is causing the prob-

We must not let the the week pass without commenting on quotes out of Enterprise on a possible route for U. S. Highway 84. We were amused to read that Mayor Jackie Thompson was cautioning about keeping the politics out of 84 "going through Elba or along another route" but didn't miss a chance to plug the need for a four lane highway from Enterprise to U. S. 231. The writer of the news article wrote "for Geneva and Enterprise people going to Montgomery and Auburn". We assume this means to go see Auburn football games. We have listed Mrs. Thompson and her family as personal friends for many years, therefore we can see her squirming over this interpretation of her comments!

It sounded like good business by a political wise leader at first when Highway Director Perry Hand spelled out exactly what roads would get the bond money funded from the proposed 7 1/2¢ gasoline tax. However the fussing which has followed from all us amateur highway engineers (more for me types) gives observers a greater respect for the politicians of the past who put nothing in writing, but promised every community more paved roads if the bond issue was approved. They then shuffled around, did horse trading with legislators, paved some roads and the others were written off by the public as typical political promises ... but they got their program and their tax.

At this writing Monday, there are plans for the space shuttle to blast off Thursday morning on a biomedical research flight. On the flight will be some rats and 2,478 jellyfish ... enough jellyfish to give a large number of our regular readers a burning sting. We hope the astronauts don't spill those rascals and find out they sting in space just like they do at the beach.

racing under VictoryLand's Milton McGregor is a long way from becom ing law. We don't really care how many dog tracks are built but do have Service Program concerns over some of the concessions often given away by a money starved legislature. The bill now in the legislature for this particular project is 131 pages long ... that in itself causes us to wonder what exactly is

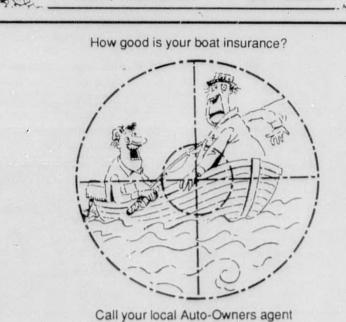

The good news corner this week includes a report of a Houston scientist who is designing a cancer vaccine. While he admits the work is still classified as experimental, the good doctor has the credentials to show he ain't a crackpot and experiments to show the plan to modify cancer genes works. For our many friends fighting this disease now and in the future, we hope he is a roaring success.

RAINY WEATHER PLAYING HAVOC WITH LEAGUES

The constant rainy weather has already played havoc with the schedules in all leagues, and with All-Star games and District Tournaments only six weeks away, something is going to have to be done to try and get in as many games as possible as soon as possible. School gets out next week, which will give the kids more free time at night, and the early solution ap pears to be adding games on Friday nights, especially in the girls softball leagues. Rain, rain, go away!!!!

HAYDEN YOUNG SELECTED TO ADVANCE

Three Elba High baseball players took part in last weekend's East-West All-Star game in Enterprise and hayden Young was one of eight players selected to go on to Regional play this weekend. Young shined both at shortstop and pitcher for the Elba Tigers this past season and has a goal of playing at the college level, a goal that seems well within his reach. Water Testing Is Essential Charlotte Martin - Assitant County Agent

More than 20 percent of all Alabama households depend on their own well, spring or cistern for drinking water. Individual water supplies of this sort are considered private and water quality for these sources is not usually required. The exceptions Home Interiors not usually required. The exceptions are bacteria tests for new or private water systems and dairy water supplies which must be tested for bacteria to meet industry standards.

The high school structure should begin to take shape soon. Grading will be completed in a few days, depending on weather conditions. Pouring of retaining walls for the gym area has been completed and other foundation work is planned in the near future, again as weather permits. Grading work for the practice fields and parking lots should be finished by the end of this week.

Even though the recent rains have slowed construction considerably, excitement continues to grow as he project takes shape. Several weeks of decent weather could put construction back on schedule and school officials still hope construcion will be finished by the beginning of the 1992-93 school year.
